NOT ENOUGH SUFFERING

SIXTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Colossians 1:24–28

There is too much suffering in the world. Everyone agrees. There is too much sickness, too much enmity, too much jealousy, too much violence, too much poverty, too much anxiety, and too much death. It is strange, then, to hear the Letter to the Colossians imply there has not yet been enough suffering. Paul says, “Now I rejoice in my sufferings for your sake, and in my flesh I am filling up what is lacking in the afflictions of Christ.”

Certainly there was nothing “lacking” in the afflictions of Christ — abandoned by his friends, betrayed by an apostle, arrested and manhandled, falsely accused, beaten, and flogged, made to carry the instrument of his torture, and nailed to it, then lifted high, to die, on a cross. Nothing was lacking.

Yet suffering has continued. Some people have known sorrows, torture, and pain even worse than that. The cross of Christ did not end suffering. But it rendered suffering powerless before the glory of the cross. Paul says he rejoices in his sufferings “to bring to completion for you the word of God, the mystery hidden from ages and from generations past.” That mystery is now made manifest: “It is Christ in you, the hope of glory.”

It feels like we have had too much suffering, but even if there is more, it cannot harm us. Suffering has no power before the promise of glory in Christ.
